Windsorite Fatally Shot; Man Kills Self

Double Tragedy Took Place In Home Thursday Night

Mrs. Flora Rinard, 33, of Windsor, was killed and Britt Shadwick, about 52, of Warrensburg, committed suicide about 11 o'clock Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Orpha Kays, on West Benton street, in Windsor. It was alleged that he shot the woman and then turned the .38 caliber pistol on himself. No reason was given for Shadwick's acts.

At an inquest held in Windsor, conducted by Dr. R. S. Hollingsworth of Clinton, Henry county coroner, it was brought out that the woman and the man had been to Clinton with another couple, and had returned a short time before the tragedy. It was said by occupants of the Kays home they thought Mrs. Rinard was preparing some food, when they heard her say, "No, no, don't do that," followed by three pistol shots.

One shot struck the woman in the chest, passing through the body and lodging in a picture on the wall. Another shot struck her in the upper part of the left arm, going through the arm and lodging in the left side of her body. She rushed through the rooms and fell upon the floor, striking her head on a vase causing a laceration over the left eye.

Shadwick Dies Instantly

The man, it was said, sat on the side of the bed, placed the gun to the right side of his head and fired. The bullet pierced his head, struck a wall and then dropped back on his leg. He died instantly.

City Marshal J. O. Williams, who resides a block away, was summoned to the scene by Charles Gibbs, a passerby. He called a doctor, who upon his arrival, found the woman dead too.

Mrs. Rinard's body was taken to the Huston-Turner funeral home and the body of Shadwick was removed to a funeral chapel at Warrensburg.

The woman would have been 34 years old on June 2. She was the wife of Russell "Pete" Rinard, a miner of Windsor, who survives, also her father, W.B. Sidwell of Windsor, two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Soles of Windsor and Mrs. Earl Downing of Leeton; a brother, Lem Sidwell of Windsor and Glenn Sidwell of Clinton. A half brother, Elmer Kelso, also of Leeton.

Former Deputy Constable

Shadwick, a former deputy constable at Warrensburg, is survived by his wife and a son, the latter in the United States army.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rinard will be held at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Huston-Turner funeral home with the Reverend Mohler, of Leeton, to officiate. The services will be private.

Interment will be made in the Windsor cemetery.

Sedalians At Ration Class

A group of Sedalians are in Jefferson City this afternoon attending a school of instruction on sugar rationing being conducted by an official representative from Washington.

Attending from here are Ellsworth Green, chairman of the Pettis county rationing board, Judge J. E. Smith and Judge Lon E. Leslie, members of the board, Miss Marie Weller, clerk, Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of the Sedalia public schools, Howard Roberts, grocer, and Miss Sylvia Dyer, of the office staff of the Roberts grocery stores.

The school is being held in the assembly room of the House of Representatives.

Registration for retail, wholesale and industrial users will be held April 28 and 29.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Archie Alexander of La Monte was admitted for medical treatment Thursday night and returned to his home this morning.

Uncle El

If we were really going back to horses and buggies, I'll bet there would be a fly in the net. Remember them, the leather ones cut like long shoe strings, and the woven ones that were always slipping off and being stepped on? And the horses drawing harnesses, wearing the long black nets that ran clear up to their ears, with tassels on them, were really handsome.

Army Chaplain

Father Edward Joseph Comer, C. S. R., a lieutenant in the United States army, who is the guest of his father, J. J. Comer and Mrs. Comer, 605 South Lafayette avenue. He leaves tonight for his first assignment as chaplain at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. He has been for the past three years in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Restrictions On Five More Commodities

Latest Orders Curtail Telephone And Truck Service

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Five new restrictions on civil life have been ordered by the Government in the gradual move toward a war footing for the whole nation.

The latest orders curtail local and long distance truck deliveries, restrict the installation of new telephones, reduce the amount of elastic used in corsets and girdles, forbid the manufacture of fishing tackle and fix prices in china, pottery and many cotton products such as sheets, blankets, diapers, towels and gingham.

A summary:

Trucks—Effective May 15 local carriers, including stores, can make no special (one-call-to-a-trip) deliveries except to hospitals and the armed services and can make no repeated attempts to deliver goods to the same person on the same day. Local carriers must reduce their other mileage by 25 per cent as compared with corresponding months last year. In intercity trucking, all trucks must be loaded to capacity on outgoing trips and to at least 75 per cent capacity on return trips, with carriers pooling their facilities where necessary.

No Telephones Installed

Telephones—Hereafter new telephones may not be installed except for persons engaged in direct war work or in occupations essential to public welfare, or unless existing exchange lines capacity can handle them without disrupting essential services. The Bell System estimated this would result in denial of about 200,000 applications this year for residential telephone service.

Prices—Ceiling were placed on the manufacturers' prices of hundreds of china and pottery items and on most cotton products now outside price control. The china price ceiling is based on the level of Oct. 1-15, 1941; the cotton ceiling bases prices on those of July 21 to Aug. 15, 1941 and is expected to bring about considerably lower prices than those now prevailing.

Cut Elastic Output

Elastic—The amount of elastic fabric which may be used in each corset, girdle, combination or brassiere was ordered reduced by about 50 per cent. Output was cut by 25 per cent.

Fishing tackle—Effective May 31 manufacture of fishing tackle is prohibited. Fish hooks may be made at a rate equal to one-half last year's.

Windsor Man On Missing Plane

George E. Van Hoozer, light engineer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Van Hoozer, of Windsor, was among seven men aboard a 4-engine bomber, which has been overdue at Albuquerque, N. M., since 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

The big machine left the Municipal Air Terminal Kansas City at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The last radio report from it was received at 8:05 o'clock that night. It was transmitted while the plane was flying near Las Vegas, N. M., a mere fifteen minutes out of Albuquerque.

The army late Thursday arranged for a search with aircraft and motor cars for the missing machine. It was planned to start the search from Cline's Corners, eighty miles east of Albuquerque. Bad weather hampered the searching attempts.

Registration Continues At Court House

One Man 66 Years Of Age Wanted To Be Registered

Expressions such as "Are you in the army now?" and "I'm ready to go" were heard today at the court house as Pettis county men between the ages of 45 and 65 exchanged greetings while signing up in the fourth registration under the Selective Service Act. About 450 men had registered by noon today, the second day of the registration.

There were 836 registered on Thursday and it is expected that a similar or even higher figure will be reached today. Registration continues Saturday and Monday and it was estimated that approximately 3,000 men in the 45-65 age bracket would be signed up in Pettis county.

He Wants To Help

Today one registrant had to be firmly persuaded with a 66-year-old man who insisted that he be registered, so anxious was he to offer his services to his country.

Members of the American Legion auxiliary and other volunteers who are contributing their time as registrars today are Mrs. Homer Hall, Mrs. Mae Newland, Mrs. Jennie Hilligoss, Mrs. H. F. Rapp, Mrs. James W. Atkinson, Mrs. Fred Curtis, Mrs. J. M. Bailey, Mrs. Herman H. Myers, Mrs. J. D. Shoemaker, Miss Doris Shoemaker, Mrs. H. C. Sammons, Mrs. Lon E. Leslie, Mrs. Irene Morris, Miss Hope Hieronymus, Mrs. E. W. Richardson, Mrs. P. F. Sigers, Mrs. George Morrison, Mrs. Richard E. Wood, Mrs. Alpha Brown, Mrs. E. F. Winfrey, Mrs. Ralph Baker and Mrs. Allen Duff.

Legionnaires Helping

Legionnaires who are assisting in keeping the lines in order and in directing the registrants to the tables, which are located on the second floor, are Ralph Baker, Carl Urban, Richard Wood, Herman Myers, S. L. Farley and G. J. Ratje.

Girl Amputates By Flashlight

RICHMOND, Va., April 24.—(AP)—An attractive girl intern crawled beneath a locomotive, held a flashlight in her teeth and amputated the leg of a railway workman with a borrowed pocket knife.

The heroine was Marina Diez-Rivas, slender, young brunette from Puerto Rico, who has been on the night ambulance-riding assignment at the Medical College of Virginia hospital.

A call came from the railroad yards. Trapped beneath a locomotive, groaning and half-delirious with pain was a yard employee. A big steel wheel was squarely across his mangled leg. There was only one way to free him—amputate—and there was only way to get at it—from underneath the locomotive.

Shivering as the night wind cut through her white uniform, Miss Diez-Rivas crawled under. Lying flat on the gravel, grease and ashes, she went to work by the dim rays of her flashlight with a small hospital scalpel. Heavy muscles and the cramped quarters presented a problem. The scalpel wasn't enough. In desperation she borrowed a big pocket knife and finished the job.

The patient is recovering.

Journalism Week May 13 to 16

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 24.—(AP)—Annual Journalism Week at the University of Missouri, May 13 to 16, will bring a wide variety of talent and experience, preliminary plans reveal.

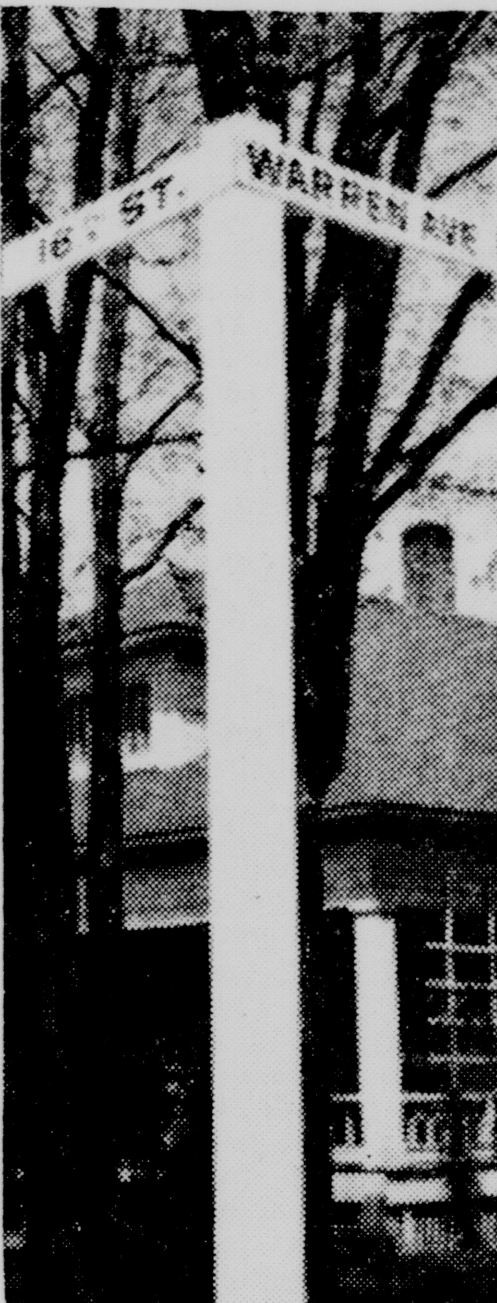

Silliman Evans, publisher of the Chicago Sun, and Frank W. Taylor, his assistant, will explain how they developed the new Chicago daily. They will be heard May 15, along with Brig Gen. Julius Ochs, Adler, former general manager of the New York Times, now on active army duty.

On May 14, Pierre J. Huss, former chief of the International News Service in Berlin, and a graduate of Missouri, and INS Editor Barry Paris will speak.

Others include: Lee Hills, news editor of the Cleveland Press; W. A. Cordingley, circulation manager of the Des Moines Register and Tribune; Clinton F. Karstaedt of the Blois, Wis., Daily News; Henry T. Edward of Campbell-Ewald Company; Paul Bellamy, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; and Dr. Frank Mott of the Iowa University Journalism school.

On the opening day, Dr. Elmer Ellis of Columbia, author of "Mr. Dooley Says," biography of Peter Finley Dunne, Chicago humorist; Hugh Haddock and Martha Cheavens, short story writers, and Paul I. Wellman, Kansas City Star staff editor, will speak.

Aid To Tourists

This sign, erected on the northwest corner of Sixteenth street and Warren avenue, is an aid to tourists who travel those streets. Many persons have asked why Sedalia does not have similar signs on all street corners. The city officials have often talked of the necessity of street signs, but the cost would be between two and three thousand dollars, and the budget has not permitted that expenditure. This sign is made of wood and is not practical for long usage. The more durable ones are of metal and probably could not be obtained at this time.

Smaller Wheat Crop May Be Necessary

Either That Or Farmers Must Take Present Low Price

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Although much of the world is starving, war curtailment of foreign trade and a record surplus of wheat in this country soon will lead Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to advise American farmers that they must reduce production further or be content with lower prices.

The forthcoming bread-grain crop and the carryover from previous years are expected to provide a supply greater than this country's transportation and storage facilities can handle. Officials predict that the supply will be sufficient to meet the normal needs of the country for two years.

On Short Rations

On the other hand, virtually the whole of Europe—particularly German-occupied Belgium, France, The Netherlands, Greece and the Balkans, as well as Italy and unoccupied France, and Spain—are on short bread rations. Germany itself is running short of supplies. Europe normally depends upon overseas sources for much of its wheat.

Because storage facilities are already crowded the department expects an acute problem to develop when the new wheat crop starts moving.

Because of shortages of farm labor, machinery and equipment, and the strain being placed on transportation facilities by the war program, aides said Wickard believed it was not in the public interest for farmers to continue the production of more wheat than can be disposed of.

Can't Ration Courage Says Physically Handicapped Man

By JIM HENDRICKSON
POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., April 24.—(AP)—Coburn Conover swung his hoe sharply and felled a clump of weeds near a stalk of rapidly growing rhubarb.

"No sir, they can't ration courage," he said.

The sun tanned hoe wielder referred to that kind of courage which brought him to his rows of rhubarb early in the morning—in a wheel chair.

"They haven't frozen the amount of work a fellow can do for himself, his family and his country—even in my predicament," he said with a grin.

Odds Against Recovery

Conover, 38, is paralyzed from the hips down. Specialists told him, after a critical illness five years ago, that the odds were heavily against his recovery should he try corrective surgery.

U.S. Plane And Crew Interned

Meager Information Indicates Plane Was Attempting To Land After Raid On Japan

By EDDY GILMORE

KUIBYSHEV, April 24.—(AP)—Russia announced today that a United States bomber which raided Japan last Saturday and then lost its way has been interned with its crew in the Russian maritime province on the Sea of Japan.

It appeared to be an already completed test of the year-old Japanese-Russian neutrality pact but United States embassy officials here said Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley had asked Washington for instructions.

The plane was said to have carried five men, one a captain. The short dispatch announcing the internment said that the airmen, "losing orientation, committed a forced landing on Soviet territory."

Loss of "orientation" was taken to mean that the plane was trying to make a landing in China. (The Japanese, identifying the attackers as medium bombers, carrying crews of five, had said that apparently some planes flew on to China.)

The only official account yet made public was circulated by Tass, official Soviet news agency, under the caption: "Forced landing of American plane in maritime province." The full dispatch follows:

Lost Directions

"KHABAROVSK, April 22.—On April 18th on the territory of the maritime province there landed an American warplane. As stated by the plane crew the latter participated on the same day in a raid by the American air force on the Japanese islands and, losing orientation, committed a forced landing on Soviet territory."

"According to common international regulations, Soviet authorities interned the American plane and crew."

The dateline of the dispatch indicated the general locale of the forced landing, although none was specifically given. Khabarovsk is about 1,000 miles northwest of Tokyo and 400 miles due north of the main port of the maritime province, Vladivostok.

The United States consul general at Vladivostok, Angus Ward, was handling affairs for the Americans from that end.

Problem For Russians

The internment of the fliers offered a delicate problem for the Russians—how to treat a soldier with whom you are allied on one front (the German front) when he enters your territory on another front in war against a nation (Japan) with which you are at peace?

(On April 13, only five days before the raid on Japan, the first anniversary of the Russian-Japanese neutrality pact, the organ of the Russian Communist party, the newspaper Pravda, warned Japanese militarists to hew to the line of neutrality.)

"It is necessary that the Japanese military and Fascist cliques who are dizzy on military successes should understand that their blabbering about war and invasion in the north (the maritime province) might damage first of all and most of all Japan herself," Pravda's editorial said.

(Tokyo's morning papers reported.)

Visited Parents

Lieutenant J. G. (Eugene) Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Webb, of Windsor, who has been stationed at Pearl Harbor for the past few years with the naval air force, visited last week with his parents before taking up his new assignment in the United States. He was accompanied by his wife and small baby, who have been in Hawaii with him. Mrs. Webb was in Pearl Harbor on December 7, when it was attacked by the Japanese while her husband was away on an assignment, returning later that day. He is the son of the principal of the Windsor high school.

Differences Between CIO-UMW Officers

Vice President May Be Displaced Or Even Expelled

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Some of the labor movement's best-informed sources were conceding today the inevitability of a showdown between John L. Lewis and Philip Murray, culminating not only in Murray's probable displacement as vice president of the United Mine Workers but in an attempt to expel him from membership as well.

Among significant recent developments were these:

1. Three top officials of the United Mine Workers (CIO) told Murray in a letter the union probably would do some "house-cleaning" at its October convention.
2. The miners continued to withhold per capita tax payments to the CIO, which Murray heads, while asking repayment of about $1,660,000 advanced to the CIO in its fledgling days when Lewis was its chief. The overdue per capita tax now totals about $60,000.

Can't Measure By Dollars

3. CIO officers replied with a dun for the per capita payments and declared that while "all workers throughout the nation owe a deep debt to the United Mine Workers of America, this debt cannot be measured in dollars."

They expressed the opinion the mine workers "did not and do not consider" the money advanced for organization purposes as a debt to be repaid in dollars in cents.

The "housecleaning" suggestion was interpreted widely as a threat of expulsion from membership, inasmuch as the miners do not choose their officers at conventions. That is done by referendum, the next of which will be held in December. Moreover, Lewis, UMW president, has the power to remove Murray from his $18,000 a year job as vice president "for insubordination or just and sufficient cause."

O'Leary Possible Officer

United Mine Workers' sources already were speaking of John O'Leary of Pittsburgh as the next vice president.

After the AFL-CIO split four years ago AFL president William Green was cited by the miners' international executive board for "disloyal acts and continued opposition to the policies of the United Mine Workers." He did not appear for trial and was expelled for "aiding and abetting an organization dual in purpose and character to the United Mine Workers."

Public Administrator Haley's Guardian

At a hearing in the Pettis county probate court this morning, J. Willis Haley, of near Houstonia, was found to be of unsound mind, and W. P. Hurley, public administrator, was appointed his guardian.

Haley was sent to the state hospital at Fulton some weeks ago after being held in the county jail following the discovery on March 14 of the body of his murdered sister, Mrs. Lillie Lower, on the farm of Mrs. Lower's mother, Mrs. Betty Haley, 12 miles north of Sedalia.

The hearing for the appointment of a guardian was reset today from two earlier dates.

The War News . . .

Streamlined

NEW DELHI, India, April 24.—(AP)—The Japanese are within 100 miles of the important Burma city of Mandalay, it was disclosed today by a British communiqué which said new attacks were developing in the Taunggyi area.

This front, 80 miles north of fallen Loikaw, is the deepest penetration in any of the three major northward thrusts of the Japanese.

It was not clear whether the advance was from Loikaw which fell Tuesday, or from the Thailand border in westward flanking action.

Chinese forces directed by Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. A., are holding that part of the allied front.

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Creation by Great Britain of a vast second front against Germany in western Europe while Russia still holds the Nazis in the east is urged by Lord Beaverbrook in the belief Russia "may settle the war for us in 1942."

The British lease-lend coordinator in Washington declared last night that "by holding the Germans in check, possibly even by defeating them, the Russians may be the means of bringing the whole axis structure down."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS

Australia, April 24.—(AP)—Allied warplanes continued their almost daily attacks on Rabaul, New Britain, by blasting shipping, barracks and warehouses at that Japanese base again, yesterday, allied headquarters announced today.

The raiders swooped low to machine gun Japanese forces on the ground, a communiqué said.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—

Bantering with the press over Japanese reports of an American air raid on key Japanese cities last Saturday and word from Moscow that one of the participating planes had been interned in Russia, President Roosevelt continued today to withhold any information.

But he did say he had received an official communication from Moscow regarding the internment of a plane.

NEW DELHI, India, April 24.—(AP)—

The Japanese, driving northward in eastern Burma, are launching new attacks in the Taunggyi area south-east of Mandalay, a communiqué from British army headquarters in Burma reported today.

Fined $10 On Traffic Charge

J. R. Curry of Longwood, was fined $10 on a reckless driving charge in an appearance before C. W. Bente, police judge this morning, following his arrest by police Thursday night after a car he was driving and a truck driven by William Robinson, Negro, collided at the intersection of highway 65 and Cooper street.

Robinson, who was held and gave a signed bond, was dismissed. He was driving a delivery truck for the Pacific fleet.

Curry was charged with driving his 1931 Ford sedan past a stop sign without stopping. He was driving his automobile east on Cooper street and was crossing the highway when his car struck the truck, which was being driven north on the highway by Robinson. Robinson's vehicle was knocked into the right curb and smashed into a stop sign. Both cars were damaged.

W. R. Curry, father of the driver of the Ford, suffered slight lacerations on his face from broken glass. J. R. Curry was released on $10 cash bond and Robinson on $5 signed bond to appear in court.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Archie Alexander, LaMonte, was admitted for medical treatment.

Mrs. R. G. Purvis, Raymond Lampe and Wayne Winston have been dismissed from the hospital.

U. S. Raiders Just College Boys At Home

Get Together To Celebrate An Air Victory In Burma

By DANIEL DE LUCE

WITH THE AMERICAN VOLUNTEER GROUP IN BURMA, April 11.—(Delayed)—(AP)—When the starry night sky blankets the Burma battleground over which their speedy planes will go hunting Japanese raiders in tomorrow's dawn patrol, the hard hitting members of the American volunteer group turn into mild-mannered ex-college boys mothered by a plump dormitory manager.

Mrs. Marion Davidson, widow of a U. S. army major, and her khaki-clad brood slip into chintz covered easy chairs in a spacious clubroom this Saturday night for a special get together to celebrate the annihilation of a Japanese fighter squadron with no losses. They also are going to see movies flown in from Calcutta and have a pow-wow with granite-jawed Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, the AVG's proud boss.

Proud of Pupils

Chennault arrived just in time to see the boys he had coached destroy at least 15 Japanese planes—and possibly five more—in a series of dogfights Wednesday and Friday.

"Fine work," says the stock middle-aged officer, who built the AVG from the ground up into the deadliest stream-lined weapon the Japanese have yet encountered. "What I told you last fall at Tongue, you haven't forgotten."

Mrs. Davidson, who has a 20-year-old son, George, in San Francisco, turns out a dinner featuring an inch-thick steak smothered with mushrooms and fresh fruit salad.

American Flag

An eight-foot American flag hangs on the wall in the room where the fliers eat.

"It's good for morale," Mrs. Davidson explains.

Sergeant Pilot Jack Gibson of Columbia, S. D., arrived from a nearby RAF mess and reports on the condition of another flier, Fred Barrack, of Odessa, Texas, who destroyed one enemy aircraft and was shot down by a second yesterday. Barrack is all right except for cuts and bruises.

He and R. C. "Moose" Moss of Oden, Ga., a member of the AVG, were United States air cadets at the same time at Love Field, Dallas.

Parsons Doctor There

The sturdy, gray thatched AVG surgeon, Dr. Lewis J. Richards of Parsons, Kas., says he is without patients now.

The latest word of Flier Frankie Swartz of Dunmore, Pa., who was injured gravely in the Japanese bombing of an RAF-AVG base in central Burma late in March, is that he is progressing nicely in a Calcutta hospital and probably will be sent home to the United States soon.

Dr. Richards' quick work in the raid is credited with saving the life of Swartz.

Newly Weds Make Plans

The AVG's newly weds, Pilot Fred Hodges of Memphis, Tenn., and the former Helen Anderson of Rangoon, daughter of an English warrant officer, are in a corner making plans about their future after the war.

They were married last week in this clubroom. The bride carried roses and orchids and was given away by Dr. Richards.

Last Wednesday she stood praying on the ground while her husband shot down one of 10 Japanese planes that fell that day on the Chinese-Burmese frontier.

Tonight the big blue battle ground in the sky is full of stars and empty of danger.

East Coast States To Miss Gasoline

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—The populous east coast, facing a severe card rationing of motor fuel, began to wonder today how it would be to live in a "gasoline age" with precious little gasoline.

Not alone will the owners of 10,000,000 automobiles feel the impact but, government officials agreed, a condition approaching a famine of gasoline would infringe on many phases of life for other millions of people.

Reactions to the announcement of rationing in the 17 Atlantic seaboard states and the District of Columbia carried a tone of serious concern over economic, social and even government operating repercussions.

Drowned In Missouri River

The Washington
Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND
ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington, April 24—"Armies Face Quinine Shortage With Java's Fall; Battle of Bataan Ended Because Quinine Pills Ran Out."

The facts behind these headlines constituted one of the things which jolted the president and caused him to transfer the buying of vital war supplies to Vice President Wallace's Bureau of Economic Warfare.

What happened was this:

Shortly after Pearl Harbor, the War Production Board and the Bureau of Economic Warfare urged government purchasing organizations to buy quinine. Ninety-five per cent of this drug comes from Java, which seemed likely to fall.

This drug is almost an all-out essential in combating malaria. And with thousands of U. S. troops slated to fight in the tropics, malaria is about as dangerous as the enemy.

Too Late

However, the government purchasing staff waited. Sumatra fell. Then Java was attacked. The world's only real source of quinine seemed sure to fall. The purchasing staff ordered a small amount.

Then, on March 5, just one day before Batavia, capital of Java, was captured, a telegram was sent, by this time ordering all the quinine there was to be had in Java—about 52,000,000 ounces.

Wishfully, the telegram spoke of June and July delivery. But not one ounce of quinine will ever be delivered from that order.

Prior to this frantic telegram, the WPB and BEW had held many meetings urging the purchase of quinine.

Lives vs. Dollars

At one time, a BEW official told an inter-government meeting as it was arguing about quinine purchases:

"If the war is over early and we are left with a lot of quinine on our hands, then we have only wasted dollars. But if the war lasts a long time then we've wasted lives."

And it now looks as if that were what would happen. It remains an unfortunate fact that for U. S. troops in Africa, Persia, India, North Australia and the West Indies—to say nothing of United Nations troops in all these and other areas—we have a pitifully small reserve of quinine.

It consists chiefly of 3,165,000 ounces purchased from Merck & Co., which had had the foresight to order it long ago. Thus this was merely a transfer from a U. S. firm to a government firm of quinine already here in the United States. It did not enrich our total quinine supply. We also have some other reserves, but added all together, the total is pitifully small for a nation at war.

And if we had acted early enough we could have had Java's total annual output of 52,250,000 ounces.

Army Lemonade

The war department is making preparations to serve lemonade to American soldiers in the tropics.

Experts in the quartermaster's corps have hit upon a method of dehydrating lemon juice, so that the essence can be preserved and transported in the form of crystals.

This is the first time in military history that the regular army rations have included lemonade. But the quartermaster general makes no apologies. He says, it is not only a refreshing drink, but also is full of vitamins.

Here is the army recipe for lemonade: One eleven ounce can of lemon crystals, and one gallon of water. Shake well before using.

The French poilu may have his wine, the British Tommy his beer, but the Yank gets his swig of lemonade.

A number of engineers and firemen of the M-K-T had a game of baseball yesterday afternoon on what is known as the "narrow gauge" grounds. J. H. Howser and Ben Mercer were the captains and both claim a victory by a score of 24 to 20.

Considerable attention is being given a new sect which has gained many adherents on the Province of Uerm in Russia. It is known as the sect of Jehovahists, though its real name is "Brotherhood of the Right Hand." Its declared purpose is the reconciliation of all religions.

Justice department attorney, Allen Doherty, caused ripples of laughter when he read a letter written by A. A. Dicke, former Remington vice president, who went to Cologne, Germany, to negotiate the ammunition deal. Describing a dinner he had with R. W. S. officials, Dicke wrote:

"That certainly was a treat. You can imagine the rare wines, champagnes, foods, etc., not to mention some 1828 cognac which was used to drink a special toast to the friendship of the two companies and to the success of our plans for cooperation to mutual benefits. Dr. Muller (head of R. W. S.) is also well acquainted with the duPonts, who usually stay at his home when they are in Cologne."

Remington Arms is a duPont subsidiary. R. W. S. is a subsidiary of I. G. Farbenindustrie, giant German chemical trust, which curtailed production of several vital war products in the United States through cartel agreements with large U. S. firms.

Privately, national Republican chiefs are not happy over the primary victory of Representative Stephen Day, isolationist Illinoisian who put out two books through the Penders Hall Co., Nazi publishing firm. State GOP leaders tried to lick him, but Day skinned through by a relatively narrow margin. Republicans fear that his name on the party ticket will play into the hands of the Democrats. . . State Democratic leaders are doing a lot of complaining that local office of price administration officials are being chosen from the ranks of Roosevelt-haters.

Serial Story . . .

Frantic Weekend

by Edmund Fancott

Copyright, 1942, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Just after the weekend guests at Ferd's Lorton Canadian country place learn that one of the party, Fay Ransom, is a famous Broadway night club singer, young Peggy Mack sees the figure of a man in the moonlight. Her brother Michael, Nigel Monkhouse and Percy bring him in. He turns out to be Baldy Brien, Fay's manager, who has come to take her back. Percy, his aunt, and Peggy's older sister Myra are unconcerned. But Michael and Nigel are both in love with Fay. And Peggy has plans of her own.

"I JUST RAN AWAY"

CHAPTER IX

"YOU must be very clever," said Peggy admiringly, ignoring Myra's questioning eye.

Baldy Brien almost purred and was just about to expand again but Peggy got in first.

"Would you be my manager?" Baldy stared at her. "Listen, baby. I'm in the show business, not running a girls' school. Run away. When you get your name in neon some place I'll come and listen to you, but I'm in it for dough—dough for me, and dough for them that can make it. I ain't a charitable organization."

Peggy looked at him with infirite scorn. "Sucker!" she said. "And I swallowed your line. Why, you couldn't see talent if it was pushed down your throat!"

Baldy started, surprised at this sudden attack. Then he bristled. "You're right, dead right, and I can't see it now."

He turned to attack Fay again and looked around the room in surprise. Fay had gone, so had Ferd, Michael and Nigel.

"Where are you staying?" asked Ferd's aunt quietly, realizing it was already late and that there were no hotels within many miles.

"Thanks very much," said Baldy. "That's kind of you, lady. I was going to take my forty in the back of the car, but if you insist, I gladly accept your invitation."

"I'm sure my nephew will enjoy you," said Ferd's aunt, after her first surprise at his self-invitation. "He has such strange ideas anyway, it will serve him right."

Baldy looked quickly at her but she was knitting placidly.

Out in the moonlight, incomparably peaceful in contrast with the recent minutes indoors, the three men and Fay were sitting on the wharf. One by one they had slipped out while Baldy was holding the floor and had wandered down to the quay.

The three men were smoking.

"Now I know," said Ferd suddenly. "Why you left New York."

"I wonder," said Fay. The moonlight cast soft shadows in the night. The air was warm. "Sometimes you do something suddenly and you don't care whether it is right or wrong. You only know that you must do it."

"But I don't understand it all," said Nigel slowly.

Fay laughed, a low soft laugh. A fish splashed somewhere out on the lake.

"Neither do I. It seems so quiet and peaceful here . . . after living so long in New York."

Michael interrupted. "But New York—singing with a band like Johnny White's—you haven't given it up?"

Fay laughed. "I haven't exactly given it up. I just ran away."

"Ran away?" said Nigel.

"Yes, Baldy is right. I had everything a girl could want. Everything a million girls would give their eye teeth to get—and I ran away."

"You're going back?" asked Michael and there was a touch of wistfulness in his voice.

"I don't know," Fay's voice came slowly, and in the pause that followed the eyes of all three men rested on her.

ALL three were thinking the same thing—that here in the moonlight they wouldn't have minded staying silently for hours, just looking at her face as it was at that moment. It wore the lovely sadness of one who has seen every dream come true with a succession of miracles and then watched them all turn to dust and tinsel.

Then she shook her head and laughed lightly, throwing her thoughts away from her.

"I'll tell you. When I first began to be noticed it was wonderful, intoxicating. There was the applause, the praise—and money came easily. Then my agent told me the time had come to have a manager to build me up and he introduced me to Baldy Brien. He talks too much but he really is as straight as they come, according to his lights."

"What happened then?" asked Nigel.

"First you have a manager, then you have a press agent. Then you have to compete with Hollywood in hair, face and dress. You have to be a glamor girl. That means a dresser, it means endless hours for fittings, hair dressing, massage, voice lessons. It all costs money, and the one that earns it has to pay."

"Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." (Matthew 5:4).

Your Clothes... And The War!

Because of the necessity for all out production of War essentials our Government has asked us to conserve all woolsens and have in fact ordered civilian clothes restrictions such as no patch pockets, no cuffs, no belts, no pleats, no extra pair of pants, etc. Women's clothes also will be made much plainer and without trills.

What does this mean to each of us? It means first that it is our patriotic duty to conserve and help our Government and second our own selfish interests demand that we make what we have do us as long as possible.

The best possible way to conserve woolsens is to have them Dry Cleaned regularly but also THEY MUST BE PROTECTED AGAINST MOTHS. Millions of garments are destroyed by moths yearly thereby necessitating the useless purchase of millions of yards of wool. We therefore take pleasure, now more than ever, in offering the following service which is absolutely Free:

ALL WOOLENS (Knits and Boucles excepted) DRY CLEANED BY US ARE TREATED WITH MONITE AND GUARANTEED AGAINST MOTH DAMAGE FOR A PERIOD OF SIX MONTHS.

The above service and guarantee will definitely solve your moth problem, for by having your clothes cleaned regularly by us they will be constantly INSURED against moth damage and incidentally the Dry Cleaning itself will prolong the life of the garments.

COLD Protects Your FURS!

For real Fur Safety let us store them in our refrigerated vaults. Our vaults are certified!

viewed relations with the Soviet Union today, expressing belief they would remain harmonious. The timing suggested that the incident of the United States plane might have inspired the comment.)

Only yesterday at his press conference, the official Russian press spokesman, S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, was asked what the Russian position would be in such a landing. Lozovsky replied:

"One can imagine dozens of suppositions. Let's wait until something happens."

Asked what would happen in event of a forced landing in the Moscow region, the spokesman replied with another question:

"Why a forced landing if we have good airdromes for American and British bombers?"

Didn't Want A Discussion
Pressed for an answer on the position of Russia on any landings on Russian soil by "planes of Russia's allies or planes of some power with which Russia has a neutrality pact," Lozovsky answered:

"The correspondent is inclined toward philosophic discussions. I don't."

Ambassador Standley was at Moscow yesterday and was received by Joseph Stalin, in the presence of foreign commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, several hours before Tass circulated the Khabarovsk dispatch.

(Washington officials have never confirmed official Japanese declarations that United States war planes took part in the raids on Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya and Kobe Saturday. Silence was maintained also upon the Tass announcement.)

We are hammering the Japs with our automobiles—not the scrap from old jalopies, but the new steel that might have been 1943 models." He spoke on the Kraft program.)

Wet Monsoon Period In Burma Will Aid The Allies

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

The wet monsoon is drawing inexorably close in Burma, heartening United Nations forces defending the road to Mandalay against desperate Japanese efforts to break through before the rains come.

Every hour gained by British imperials or the Chinese troops, now apparently holding much of a 150 mile front from the Irrawaddy to the Salween, is of vital consequence. Within three weeks or less, the monsoon change will render lower Burma, through which Japanese supply lines run, a sea of mud.

That it will wash out the force of the attack is inevitable, even though the rains in the fighting zones fall less torrentially than in the lower valleys of the Irrawaddy and Sittang. For it is up those valleys from Rangoon that all roads to Mandalay run.

Japan has staked much on breaking through to Mandalay, or at least to the upper oil fields of the Irrawaddy southwest of Mandalay, before the rains. Once the weather breaks, the air odds against the defenders will cease to be a controlling factor. And without that advantage Japanese chances of mopping up before adequate British or American reinforcements can be mustered will be slight.

Flank Attack Dangerous

Chungking's report that the Chinese troops not only have cleared Yenangaung of the foe but driven him back some miles down the Irrawaddy is highly encouraging. That Japanese flanking attack up the Irrawaddy which forced the British to destroy the oil fields of which Yenangaung is the center appears the most dangerous.

The British have fallen back behind the Pinchaung river just north of Yenangaung to organize a new defense front. They also have withdrawn from Taungdingyi but guard the Bay of Bengal flank from any Japanese seaborne thrust to turn the Burma front from the west. There is increasing evidence, however, that British and possibly American air and naval power is being mustered in India and the Indian ocean to balk either that or Japanese attempts at direct invasion of mainland India.

It is upon the Chinese troops, however, that the fate of the road to Mandalay rests. They appear to be holding the crucial sectors of the southern front from the Irrawaddy to the Salween.

The Rangoon-Mandalay railroad runs up the Sittang. The Chinese have put a step-by-step resistance there that has as yet balked the foe in the center and forced him to attempt extended flanking operations both eastward along the Salween and westward up the Irrawaddy.

Chinese forces on the Salween at Loikaw are said by Chungking to have fallen back because of a turning movement north of them. That is the least dangerous of the five Japanese attacks, however. North of Loikaw lie some of the most rugged mountains of Burma. They offer many successive defense positions to Chinese troops well adapted to that type of fighting. They also minimize the Japanese advantage in air power and mechanized equipment.

That east flank also offers the greatest communication and supply difficulties to the foe. It will be first to feel the effects of the rains, when they come, and unquestionably the strategy of the Chinese and their American allies and advisers is to fall back as necessary on the Salween while greater efforts are concentrated on holding the Sittang front and bolstering the hard pressed British on the Irrawaddy.

Germans Free 20 Hostages

By TAYLOR HENRY

VICHY, France, April 24—(P)—The twenty hostages of St. Nazaire, seized by the Germans because Frenchmen of that important coastal city participated in the British commando raid on the naval base last March 28, were freed Thursday by the Germans.

It was the second such act of intended conciliation toward the French in two days, although it came after a total of 123 German executions of Frenchmen since the first of April. These executions were carried out in an attempt to stop a series of outbreaks against the German soldiery in widespread areas of occupied France—Paris, Normandy, Brittany and the northeastern departments.

Upwards of 100 hostages remain who are scheduled to die unless perpetrators of several of the outbreaks are yielded up to the occupying authorities by one deadline—one tonight and one Sunday night.

Today, the 20 St. Nazaire hostages were freed, after French authorities had made personal representations in their behalf. Among the twenty was Jean Blanchard, an important labor leader, whose arrest attracted special attention.

Navy Cross To A Missourian

WASHINGTON, April 24—(P)—His heroic actions during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor December 7 won the navy cross Thursday for Marine Sergeant Thomas E. Hailey, son of Grover C. Hailey of St. Joseph, Mo.

Hailey, 26, was aboard a ship which was sunk during the Japanese attack. He swam to another ship and assisted in the rescue of his fellows. Then, on his own initiative, the navy said, he assisted in manning an anti-aircraft gun despite severe enemy bombing and strafing and the fact that he was without previous experience in using that type of weapon.

"Later, upon arrival at the naval station, Pearl Harbor," the navy citation said, "Hailey, clothed only in his underwear, and armed with a rifle, volunteered and went up in an airplane that was leaving on a search mission."

Captain Chevy S. White of Norton, Kas., was commended "for distinguished devotion to duty and extraordinary courage and disregard of personal safety" during the Pearl Harbor attack.

Sunday School Lesson

Present Welfare And Future Destiny Affected By Neglect of Practical Issues

Text: Luke 13:22-35

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Editor of Advance

"Way-side conversation," the title of this lesson, is very appropriate, and it applies to a great deal beyond the record in the lesson of what Jesus did and said as "He went on His way through cities and villages, teaching and journeying." One may recall the word of one of the disciples with whom Jesus conversed on the way from Jerusalem to Emmaus, following His crucifixion. "Did our hearts burn within us while He talked with us by the way and while He opened to us the scriptures?" A great part of the teaching of Jesus was in these way-side conversations, and it is fortunate for us that those who listened were so impressed that they either made a record of the words at the time, or preserved them so carefully in memory that they became a part of the Christian tradition and of the Scriptures.

Here in our lesson, too, is a rather familiar scene or experience, illustrating the tendency of many people to be very much concerned about theoretical things and matters of controversy, to the neglect of practical issues and sometimes of the most important things affecting their immediate welfare and their ultimate destiny.

Someone in the way-side company was concerned about the destiny of the human race and the number of those who should be saved. Has not this a very familiar sound when we consider to how great an extent this particular question and similar questions have exercised both eminent churchmen and those of the rank and file, down to our own time?

What was the reply of Jesus to this speculative question, which mostly concerned the destiny of other people? It was to remind those who heard Him that the thing which primarily concerned them was their own destiny, and making sure that that destiny would be secure by properly attending to their character and conduct in the immediate decisions and commitments of life. "Strive to enter in at the straight gate."

In what sense is the way to salvation a straight gate or a narrow door? Jesus made it plain. There is only one way, salvation does not come by chance, nor does it come merely by association. It would not be enough even for these to say, "I knew the Lord; I ate and drank with Him, and I heard Him teach along the wayside roads and in the streets." What Jesus was emphasizing was that the way or regeneration, of the New Birth, is the only way to salvation.

The remaining portion of the lesson is also very instructive in indicating the attitude of Jesus toward rulers and worldly dignitaries. Someone urged Him to get into hiding because Herod, the king, desired to kill Him. Jesus made it plain that He was not going to interrupt His work of blessing because of any threat from Herod, but what is significant is that He called Herod "that fox." Now, Herod was in an earthly sense the king to whom Jesus owed allegiance.

It is a false use of scripture to suggest that there is a sanctity attaching to earthly rulers, independently of their character or conduct. The Bible does not uphold any divine right of kings, but only the obligation of kings, as well as subjects, to obey the will of God and serve their fellowmen with justice and truth. And rulers in a democracy are worthy of respect only as they exemplify the integrity and devotion to the common welfare that ought to be the obligation of every good citizen.

America's Priceless Heritage

"For the support of these principles we pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

The phrase quoted above is the concluding line of the American Declaration of Independence, beneath which the Founding Fathers of this Republic solemnly signed their now-famous names.

The principles for which they risked so much—Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Press, Trial by Jury, Freedom of Religion, Universal Education, Representative Government—these in truth are among the brightest crown-jewels of America. They give us pride in our past, hope for our future.

Such priceless possessions must be guarded and zealously transmitted from generation to generation. Our Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churches, ceaselessly building good citizenship and fostering enlightenment, are a vital link in the preservation of these American treasures.

Dutch Leonard Suffers Broken Ankle In Fall

Accident Setback For Washington's Hopes For Season

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first serious casualty of the major league baseball season is Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Washington Senators, whose luck seems to be going from bad to worse.

The round faced righthander stumbled running out a grounder in yesterday's tussle with the Boston Red Sox. He suffered a broken ankle.

This means the big fellow will be out of action indefinitely and Washington's hopes received a setback.

The Senators won yesterday, 10-5, but the game itself was not a pleasing spectacle — there were 26 hits evenly divided and Boston made six errors to Washington's two.

The day proved more cheery for the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians, both of whom were as fearful of their pitching in the south as Washington was hopeful.

White Pitches Shutout
Hal White, the rookie Detroit righthander, pitched his second straight shutout, 5-0, on five hits against the Chicago White Sox, the Tigers touched Ted Lyons for 16.

For Cleveland Jim Bagby, the lean righthander, acquired his third straight victory, 9-2, over the St. Louis Browns. Bagby gave nine hits, the Indians pushed seven runs across in the last two frames.

The New York Yankees were donated a 6-4 decision by the Philadelphia Athletics, who out-hit the world champions 9 to 8 but made six errors. A fifth-inning barrage by the A's shifted Rookie Hank Borowy off the mound. In the ninth Norman (Red) Branch fanned Pinchhitter Mike Kreevich with the bases loaded and two out. Joe Gordon came through with a single when the Yankees had the bases loaded in the eighth and knocked in two runs for the margin of victory.

Reiser Hit Two-run Homer
The Brooklyn Dodgers were helped to a 9-5 triumph at Boston by three errors and a lot of lax play. Each team made 10 hits and seven pitchers saw service. Pete Reiser hit a two-run homer.

The Cincinnati Reds staged their biggest rally of the year to score five runs in the seventh inning and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3. John Vander Meer pitched five-hit ball. Until the seventh the Reds had been held to one hit by John Lanning.

Lou Novikoff, the big bust of the Chicago Cubs last year, "busted" a sixth-inning home run to decide a pitching duel between Bill Lee and Max Lanier in favor of the Cubs, 2-1, over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The New York Giants continued their timely hitting to down the Phils, 5-2.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, April 24—One result of the gas shortage, according to folks who run sporting camps up north, will be increased popularity of canoe camping trips. . . . And we'll guarantee that if you paddle a canoe a dozen miles against a head wind, lug it and your camp equipment across a couple of portages and sleep on the ground a few nights, you won't need any obstacle courses to toughen you up. . . . One suggestion for conserving golf balls is for the U. S. G. A. to eliminate rule 24, which forbids switching balls on the green. That would let duffers hack at old pellets in the rough, then change to a good one for putting. . . . Now will all you guys who ever heard of rule 24 raise your hands? . . . For the first time in years, the special train from New York to the Kentucky Derby won't be run this spring.

Shear Nonsense

In the interests of more colorful sports writing, we quote: Arthur (Red) Patterson, N. Y. Herald Tribune (on Jim Tobin's slow ball): "Something which looked like a cross between a grapefruit and a bean bag, with perhaps a bit of dead cod thrown in." . . . Alan Ward, Oakland Tribune (on the knocking-out of Ernie Nrdman, Kansas City heavyweight): "Kansas City beef, heretofore considered the choicest in the land, has taken a terrific drop."

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Max Schmeling is to return to the ring. One way to settle this war would be to put him in the ring with Joe Louis. But that would be akin to murder and after all this country is still humane and honorable."

Cleaning The Cuff

Ned Irish has just received a check for $203 for the navy relief fund which was raised by taking up a collection at Bowling Green, Ky., when they showed the movies of Western Kentucky's games in the Madison Square Garden basketball tournament. . . . George May, who put over the Tam O'Shanter open golf tourney in a big way at Chicago last summer, reports that more than 14,000 tickets already have been sold for this year's event.

Sang 'Frankie And Johnnie' As He Was Prepared To Be Executed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 24.—A ballad crooning Negro murderer executed in Missouri's lethal gas chamber today left for science a film record of the last, spasmodic beats of his heart.

The 36-year-old Negro, Ernest Tyler, hummed quiet snatches of "Frankie and Johnnie" while doctors from Washington University St. Louis, strapped microphones to his chest so they could hear him die.

The gas was released at 12:14 a. m. Tyler was unconscious in a minute. In three minutes his life sped through the heart changes a normal man experiences in his last 20 years, and Tyler was dead.

Dr. William Kountz of Washington University, one of the inventors of the new device for studying heart muscles said:

"The ultimate purpose of this study is to take a normal heart which is changing and failing and establish the point at which the instruments begin to record muscle weakness. What happened to this man in a few minutes happens to all men in the last 20 years of their life as they grow old."

Experimental Machine
Dr. Kountz said the medical profession has had no device for recording early changes in heart muscles.

"With this machine we hope to detect heart disease in its earliest stage while it still can be combated."

A detailed study of Tyler's dying heart will not be made public until it is presented before the American Heart Association, June 5, at Atlantic City.

The husky Negro—convicted of a robbery slaying in Kansas City—cheerfully gave his consent to the experiment.

Dr. Kountz said Tyler's heart quit pumping blood to his brain three minutes after the gas was released. The recording instrument showed, however, that the Negro's heart twitched for five or six minutes afterward.

At the end, science had a complete, recorded story of Tyler's heart—how it raced in seconds from healthy normalcy to death.

Dr. Temple Is Enthroned

By J. WES GALLAGHER

CANTERBURY, England, April 24.—(AP)—Wearing the same resplendent robes his father wore in a similar ceremony 45 years ago and against a traditional background altered only by the war, Dr. William Temple, 60, was enthroned Thursday as the 98th Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England.

Spirit fighter planes heading toward France flashed in the April sky, striking the note of incongruity in the ritual eight centuries old.

Trumpeters sounded their fanfare as Archbishop and Retinue entered the great west door of Canterbury cathedral. The Archdeacon of Canterbury, the Rev. T. K. Spowith, led Dr. Temple to the massive, marble chair of St. Augustine where "the enthronement of the most reverent father in God, William Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England" was duly enacted.

Forty-five bishops stood by in the sand-bagged church and the sun splashed through the bomb-marked stained-glass windows as renowned liberal churchman formally took office.

In an address, the new archbishop declared that "if the Christian movement and all the hopes connected with it are to prevail, the axis must be defeated. 'It is our duty as Christian citizens to do our best toward winning the war that we may keep open the possibility of a Christian civilization.'"

Plane In Japan Raid Is Forced Down In Russia

Soviets Intern American Crew On Aircraft

MOSCOW, Friday, April 24.—(P)—The official Tass news agency announced today that an American plane identified by its crew as a participant in the air raids on Japanese cities last Saturday made a forced landing in the Siberian maritimes after losing its bearings.

The text of the Tass statement broadcast by the Moscow radio follows:

"On April 18 an American war plane landed in maritime territory.

"According to the statement of the plane's crew on that day this plane had participated in an American air raid on Japanese islands and, having lost its bearings, made a false landing on Soviet territory.

Crew Is Interned

"In accordance with international law, Soviet authorities interned the American plane and its crew."

(This was the first direct word from any source of the landing of any of the planes which raided Japan. There still has been no word from any other United Nations source regarding the raids.

(The British news agency Reuters reported in London that the Moscow radio broadcast that reports from Khabarovsk said the plane landed in Russia Far East territory.

(It was not stated where the plane landed but the Khabarovsk is 200 miles west of the sea of Japan and 400 miles north of Vladivostok, Russian Siberian port.)

(Japanese imperial headquarters announced last Saturday that the great cities of Japan—Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagoya—were bombed for the first time in history by planes which bore the insignia of the United States air force.

(There have been frequent references to the raids and the planes since then on axis radios but there has been no comment from the United Nations on the raids.)

Still a military secret apparently of the U. S. high command is the origin of the flights, and the eventual disposition of any U. S. planes after the attacks on Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, and Kobe.

Russian internment of the fliers presented a curious situation. The Soviets have a friendship agreement with Japan although Japan is a member of the axis which is trying to destroy Russia. The advisability of avoiding a "second front" dictates observance of this agreement by both parties.

Yet the United States is sending a steady stream of military supplies to Russia to enable her to stand off the Nazi armies.

Some observers believe the strained but present expedient neutrality between Russia and Japan inevitably will result in a collision—dependent in either case on the outcome of the Russian-German war.

Navy Cross To A Missourian

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(P)—His heroic actions during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor December 7 won the navy cross today for Marine Sergeant Thomas E. Hailey, son of Oliver C. Hailey of St. Joseph, Mo.

Hailey, 26, was aboard a ship which was sunk during the Japanese attack. He swam to another ship and assisted in the rescue of his fellows. Then, on his own initiative, the navy said, he assisted in manning an anti-aircraft gun despite severe enemy bombing and strafing and the fact that he was without previous experience in using that type of weapon.

"Later, upon arrival at the naval station, Pearl Harbor," the navy citation said, "Hailey, clothed only in his underwear, and armed with a rifle, volunteered and went up in an airplane that was leaving on a search mission."

Captain Chevy S. White of Norton, Kas., was commended "for distinguished devotion to duty and extraordinary courage and disregard of personal safety" during the Pearl Harbor attack.

Uncle El

If I was starting a list of things that are of little consequence in these war times, believe I'd lead off with who wins the American or National League pennant. Then I'd add who Tommy Manville marries next and the love-life of the movie stars, and in the end have quite a string of things not to worry about.

Student Council Elects Officers

Cecil Swift was elected president of the senior student council for the 1942-43 term of school at the annual election held at Smith-Cotton high school Tuesday.

Bonnie Herrick was elected vice-president of the senior council at the final election, which terminated several weeks of campaigning with speeches and publicity at the high school.

In the junior high school student council, Kenneth Hunt was chosen president for the coming year, and P. J. Hedderich vice-president. Other officers of both councils will be named after the next term opens.

Registration Of Men 45 To 65 Underway

Native Of Greece Happy To Register On His Birthday

The fourth registration under the Selective Service Act, which is for men between 45 and 65 years of age, got underway in Sedalia Thursday morning in the lobby of the court house on the second floor. There was a rush to be among the early registrants and from 8 o'clock until nearly ten o'clock, a long line of men waited their turn to appear before one of the fourteen women who are acting as registering clerks.

The registration continues Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Probably one of the proudest men to appear was George Harry Kostelas, a naturalized citizen, formerly of Greece. Today meant to him that he is one of many Americans to register and it is on his fifty-second birthday, George as he is more familiarly known, was born in Greece, on April 23, 1890, and came to the United States, a number of years ago.

He received his final papers, making him a full fledged American in 1932, and since that time has been taking an active part in the affairs of his adopted country, insofar as he could.

Many men appearing before the clerks, pulled out their pocket books and showed the women their registration cards of World War I. Several said their number "came up and they went in the last war and they wouldn't mind seeing it "pulled" this time.

There were men from every walk of life. Among them were veterans from the Spanish American war and World War I.

J. K. "Pat" Kidd, clerk of the Selective Service Board, estimated at least 800 men will have registered by closing time this evening. The estimate for the entire county registration has been placed at 3,000.

The following women are interviewing their services in the interviewing and registering the men:

Mrs. Homer Hall, Mrs. F. B. Piper, Miss Hope Hieronymus, Mrs. Ralph Baker, Mrs. J. B. Poundstone, Mary E. Harris, Mrs. Ada Shephard, Mae Newland, Mrs. Irene Mori, Mrs. Richard Wood, Mrs. S. L. Farley, Mrs. Elmer Winfrey, Mrs. J. H. Brooks, Mrs. Claude Brown and Mrs. George Morrison.

Members of the Pettis County Post, No. 16, American Legion police force, assisted in handling the crowd, and the lining up of the men for their turn.

Fined For Gambling

HUNTSVILLE, Mo., April 23.—(P)—Pleading guilty in Randolph county circuit court to 18 gambling or liquor charges, 12 men were fined a total of $6,500 yesterday. They paid $3,950 of the fines and the remainder was remitted.

They Register - 45 to 65 - At The Court House

Installation Of New 'Phones Be Restricted

Tightening Up On Deliveries By Trucks Ordered

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(P)—Because of war demands on communication facilities, the government today restricted installation of new telephones.

The order means, the war production board said, that only persons engaged in direct war work or in occupations essential to the public welfare "can be sure of obtaining new telephone service in the future."

"New service may be denied to groups outside the preferred category unless existing exchange lines capacity can take care of their needs without disrupting essential service," a WPB statement added.

Restrict Truck Deliveries

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(P)—The government piled up wartime restrictions on local and long distance truck deliveries today, made it clear it would soon become difficult to get new telephones installed, forbade the manufacture of fishing tackle and reduced the amount of elastic fabric used in making corsets and girdles.

The office of defense transportation ordered all operators of locally used trucks, including the stores, to discontinue making special deliveries to customers. It also forbade "call-backs" on the same day when the first call finds the customer not at home.

No more than one delivery to a single person on one day was the rule laid down. At the same time "call-backs" for the purpose of making collections were prohibited.

The office of defense transportation, meanwhile, laid down this rule for trucks operating between cities: They must be loaded to capacity on the trip out and to 75 per cent of capacity, at least, on the trip back.

'Strike Out To Help Russia'

NEW YORK, April 23.—(P)—Lord Beaverbrook, declaring that "Russia may settle the war for us in 1942," called tonight for a great new offensive by the British in the west to help the Soviet armies battling Germany.

"By holding the Germans in check, possibly even by defeating them, the Russians may be the means of bringing the whole axis structure down," the British publisher told the annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

"This is a chance, an opportunity to bring the war to an end here and now. But if the Russians are defeated and driven out of the war, never will such a chance come to us again.

"Strike out to help Russia. Strike out violently. Strike even recklessly, but in any event such blows that real help will be our share and contribution to the Russian battlefront."

The British publisher, who recently left Prime Minister Winston Churchill's cabinet to come to the United States on a government mission, said he believed in the Russian theory that "the best form of defense is attack." He paid high tribute to the vital aid the United States has given the Soviet armed forces.

Two On Bond After Accident

J. R. Curry, Longwood, Mo., and William Robinson, Negro delivery truck driver for the Pacific cafe, were arrested and released on bond by the police Thursday evening after vehicles driven by the two men collided at the intersection of highway 65 and Cooper street about 7 o'clock.

Curry is charged with driving his 1931 Ford sedan past a stop sign without stopping. He was driving his automobile east on Cooper street and was crossing the highway when his car struck the truck, which was carrying north on the highway by Robinson. Robinson's vehicle was knocked into the right curb and smashed into a stop sign. Both cars were damaged.

W. R. Curry, father of the driver of the Ford, suffered slight lacerations on his face from broken glass. J. R. Curry was released on $10 cash bond and Robinson on $5 signed bond to appear in police court this morning.

Noted Author Dying Heart Is Lent To Science

Still Cherishes Book Given Him By Sedalia Woman

Alvin F. Harlow, of New York, author of a forthcoming book on Kentucky, "Weep No More, My Lady," is a native Sedalian. His father was in the express business—a messenger agent on the Missouri, Kansas and Adams Express company.

A press release from New York, states he was born on the south side of Seventh street, between Ohio avenue and Osage avenue. It continues:

"His two closest playmates were Joe and William Glass, sons of James Glass, long a prominent wholesale liquor dealer here. He still cherishes a beautifully bound and illustrated copy of Goldsmith's poems which Mrs. Glass gave him. Of the two boys William Glass died comparatively young; Joseph entered the Catholic priesthood, and when he died in 1926, was Bishop of Salt Lake City.

ALVIN F. HARLOW

"Among Mr. Harlow's other playmates were Chester Holcomb, Harry Sennett and some of the Faulhaber girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Faulhaber, who later removed to St. Louis.

"There were numerous Kentuckians among the early settlers in and around Sedalia—the Priests, Lindsays, Cartwrights, Majors, Mitchums and others among those whom Mr. Harlow recalls, all of whom were friends of his parents.

His Fourteenth Book

"Weep No More, My Lady" will be his fourteenth book. In dealing with the gun and knife-play Kentuckians in the past, he has handled the subject—for the most part in the chapter entitled "—And Sudden Death"—without gloves, as a good historian should."

Essay Award To Lewellyn Gould

Chancellor Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford university announced this week that the annual prize of $100 given by the Colonial Dames for the best essay on American colonial history was awarded this year to Miss Lewellyn Gould, of Sedalia. Her subject was "Peter Stuyvesant: History and Folklore."

Miss Gould is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Gould and the granddaughter of Mrs. P. S. Dewese, 602 South Montauk avenue.

She graduated from Smith-Cotton high school in 1939 and was valedictorian of her class.

Increase In Tire Cost

Negro Murderer To Gas Chamber At Midnight

JEFFERSON CITY, April 23.—(P)—A Kansas City Negro murderer entered the Missouri prison's death house tonight prepared to lend his dying heart to science.

As 36-year-old Ernest Tyler dies in the state gas chamber at midnight in punishment for a robbery killing, a microphone strapped on his chest will record the reaction of his heart on a newly-invented scientific device.

The instrument was invented by Dr. William Kountz and Dr. John Smith of Washington university, St. Louis, who will check its performance against that of electrodes on his wrists and ankles.

The doctors predict their new instrument will be "extremely valuable in detecting early the presence of heart disease" by picking up changes in heart action long before any other device.

They asked Missouri state officials for permission to test the invention on the next man to be executed in the state gas chamber, where lives are snuffed out by deadly hydrocyanic fumes.

Assented To Test

The officials checked it up to Tyler. The stocky Negro assented cheerfully with "it doesn't make any difference to me."

He maintained that calm up to his final day—even when Gov. Forrest C. Donnell announced after studying his case that he saw "no justification for executive clemency."

But when prison officials asked what he wanted for his final meal, Tyler couldn't develop any special appetites. So they gave him "the usual" last dinner: Fried chicken—with strawberries for dessert.

Tyler was sentenced to death for fatally shooting Irvin Schwarzenholz while robbing his Kansas City home Aug. 16, 1940. He also wounded Mrs. Schwarzenholz. The supreme court affirmed the death sentence March 13.

Hear Talk On Youth Problem

"The Occupational Development of Youth During and Following The War" was the subject of a talk by Dr. H. H. London, assistant professor of trade and industrial education, University of Missouri, at the Thursday noon meeting of Sedalia Kiwanis club.

Pinkney Miller, program chairman, introduced the speaker whose presentation of his subject matter was so impressive and understandable that he was invited to return to the club at some future date.

Members of the club expressed interest in a joint program with Rotary and Lions clubs when Coach Doc Faupot of the University of Missouri will show football pictures. Attendance was left individually optional, rather than plan group attendance.

Attendance Chairman R. W. Cook with the assistance of Past President Henry Salveter pinned attendance buttons on the following 100 per centers: Ed McLaughlin and T. H. Yount, 6 years; Harry Lindstrom, Rev. H. U. Campbell, Ben Robinson and Abe Rosenthal, each two years.

Price Lid To Cover Many Of Necessities

Extends To The Cupboard And To The Closet

By STERLING F. McGREENE

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(P)—The government carried its campaign against rising living costs into the kitchen, cupboard and closet today by placing price ceilings on china and pottery and a long list of cotton products including sheets, blankets, diapers, towels and gingham.

In addition, a permanent price lid was put on used egg crates, an element in the cost of eggs.

The two major orders affected prices at the manufacturers' level and, in the case of cotton, should bring about "considerably lower" prices than those prevailing, OPA said. The chinaware order, covering hundreds of china and pottery items, including cups, saucers, dishes, plates and bowls, was in effect a denial of a price boost requested in February.

The cotton products action, supplementing seven existing price orders on cotton yards and goods, brought practically every product of the cotton textiles industry under price control, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said.

It is effective May 4 and bases prices on the levels prevailing July 21 to August 15, 1941. The ceiling is a flexible one, designed to let prices fluctuate with raw cotton quotations.

Scope Is Extended

Additional finished articles affected include bedspreads, tablecloths, napkins, corduroys, flannels, cottonades and chambrays, and among the unfinished goods covered are shirting, satens, gabardine, industrial fabrics, ducks, and wide goods of 42 inches and over.

Price schedules on a "dollar and cents" basis are being prepared for the new items brought under ceilings, Henderson disclosed, but for the time being it was considered best to provide a method under which each seller would determine his maximum price for himself, even though this might result in a different ceiling price for each producer.

For this reason an elaborate formula was set out under which the sellers will use the "weighted average price" in effect during the July 21-August 15 basis period, adjusted by the differentials provided for changes in spot cotton prices.

The china and pottery order imposes on manufacturers of vitreous ware a ceiling at the price levels of October 1-15, 1941, but allows producers of semi-vitreous ware to charge 5 per cent above the October 1-15 quotations.

OPA said this would allow a "fair margin of profit." Manufacturers, who granted two 10 per cent wage increases to employees last year, had scheduled a 10 per cent price boost last February, but voluntarily withdrew it in order to give OPA time to complete a study of costs in the industry.

Stoneware and art pottery were not covered by the new action. Even under price control, the industry, which enjoyed sales of almost $50,000,000 last year, is expected to obtain more favorable dollar profits than in pre-war years. OPA said, because of increased purchasing power already reflected in mounting sales of china and pottery articles.

The price order for used egg cases replaces a temporary order and fixes prices substantially at the levels prevailing from October 1 to 15 1941.

Wet Monsoon Period In Burma Be Aid To Allies

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

The wet monsoon is drawing inexorably close in Burma, heartening United Nations forces defending the road to Mandalay against desperate Japanese efforts to break through before the rains come.

Every hour gained by British imperials or the Chinese troops, now apparently holding much of a 150 mile front from the Irrawaddy to the Salween, is of vital consequence. Within three weeks or less, the monsoon change will render lower Burma, through which Japanese supply lines run, a sea of mud.

That it will wash out the force of the attack is inevitable, even though the rains in the fighting zones fall less torrentially than in

Military Talks To Company F

Regular drill was held Thursday night by Company F, Fourth Missouri Infantry, with inspection by Lieutenant Ellsworth Green at the armory.

Major E. J. Hansman, of the second battalion, spoke on a recent review of the first regiment in St. Louis after which members of the company made a trip to the new armory now under course of construction for an inspection.

They proceeded from there to the Smith Cotton high school athletic field where guard mount, rifle exercises and bayonet drill were held.

Returning to the armory, Lieut. Green gave a lecture on "Military Courtesy."

The regular non-commissioned officers and recruit drill will be held Tuesday night, April 28.

Nine-Tenths Of Nazi Army On Russian Front

Hitler Calls Up 1,900,000 Reserves Soviets Assert

By EDDY GILMORE

KUIBYSHEV, U. S. S. R., April 23.—(P)—Nine-tenths of the whole German army is on the Russian front and Hitler has called up 1,900,000 reserves, but the Red army is moving up enough men to meet this immense threat, the official Soviet spokesman declared today.

Constant skirmishing, some of it violent, continued on the vast quagmire of the front, but there was yet no sign of a German spring offensive and Red army dispatches laid stress on the fact that no major action was being joined.

(Axis and neutral reports received in London led observers there to think the Red army itself was feeling out German lines in the Donets basin and Crimea preparatory to beating Hitler to the spring punch in these southern areas. The Germans said the Russians were attacking on the Crimean Kerch peninsula, using from 20 to 30 tanks in one thrust; Stockholm dispatches said that the Russians were massing men near Kerch for a new drive westward and that others were being concentrated in the southern Ukraine, possibly for offensive action. These reports were substantiated to some degree by a German announcement that the Nazi air force was bombing troops concentrations southeast of Kharkov and in the Kerch area as well.)

Russian reports from the southern sectors, where the ground now is hardening and where the Germans might be expected to strike an early new blow toward the Caucasus, indicated that German counter-attacks had waned mysteriously, and that in many sections the enemy was merely defending fortified populated places.

Nearly Half Youths

Of the total of German reserves called recently to the colors, at least 900,000 were said by Solomon Lozovsky, the Soviet vice-commissioner of foreign affairs, to be from new military classes of youths 17 and 18 years old. Half a million more, he added, were taken from vital industry and another half a million from "the vassal countries."

Lozovsky said there was every indication that the German rear was disintegrating and the people exhausted. In this connection, he praised such British air action as the recent heavy raids on Augsburg and Luebeck. But he would not express an opinion as to whether this situation offered the possibility of creating of a second front in Europe by Russia's allies and he cautiously evaded a question as to the scope of U. S. supplies now arriving in Russia.

Letters Issued

Letters of administration on the estate of the late George W. Bauman, have been issued to Anna E. Mitchell, in probate court by Judge J. E. Smith.

Step Up Tempo of Air Raids

Allied Fliers Batter The Japanese Base Of Rabaul Scoring Hits

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, April 23.—(P)—A quickening of tempo of allied air raids on the important and battered Japanese base of Rabaul on New Britain island was announced today from General MacArthur's headquarters, along with word that Dutch and Australian forces still are battling the Japanese on the invaded island of Timor.

Buildings at Stockholm plantation, near Rabaul, were hit directly in a surprise raid Tuesday afternoon, MacArthur's communiqué said, and on Wednesday morning the allied bombers followed up with attacks on a dock.

The size of the United Nations forces still on Timor, which is a part—Dutch part—Portuguese island 400 miles northwest of Australia, was not disclosed.

Touching also on the continued fighting in the Philippines, the communiqué said the struggle was continuing on Cebu island, that American-Filipino forces were in contact with the enemy on southern Panay island, and that the Manila Bay fortress of Corregidor had undergone intermittent but diminishing dive bomber attacks.

Held Out On Slopes

(The Japanese radio reported 500 to 600 Americans and Filipinos were holding out on the slopes of Mount Baloy on Panay but that other resistance on that island had collapsed.)

While General MacArthur conferred with his air commander, Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, who had just returned from inspection of bases, Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary announced formation of a 14-man naval staff for the southwest Pacific area. Two are Australians and one Dutch, the others being Americans, headed by Capt. J. Cary Jones as chief of staff.

MacArthur, with Prime Minister Curtin, also met the premiers of the Australian states in a closed session on political and military plans.

Authoritative sources said Curtin arranged the meeting so the premiers could appreciate in advance any reasons for large-scale internal arrangements which might be made at any time.

Meanwhile an announcement by Prime Minister Peter Fraser in New Zealand clarified the status of that dominion, more than 1,000 miles east of Australia. He said his government had concurred in placing defense of New Zealand, Fiji and other islands under a U. S. naval command, even though New Zealand had made representations favoring a close link with Australia under MacArthur.

(Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley has been mentioned in Washington as the expected appointee.)

Chinese Forced Back

The Central Missouri Farmer

Farmers Get Advantage To Better Selves

Families At A Disadvantage Accorded Loans

The strength of the democratic form of government is reflected in the way in which small farmers have cooperated with the Farm Security Administration's program which makes it possible for them to produce their share of the vast amount of food needed to win the war.

So declared Roy E. Taylor, a member of the Farm Security Administration Advisory Committee of Pettis County.

"Only in a democracy will the common people of their own free will go into debt in order that they can produce more and more of the foodstuffs their country must have," he said. "The farmers of Nazi Germany and conquered France might be driven and threatened into producing more, but we have another way here in America."

"Small farm owners and tenant farmers, farm laborers and youth clubs are borrowing money from the Farm Security Administration, and paying 5 per cent interest, in order to buy more tools, more seed, feed, fertilizer and other equipment without which they cannot increase production," Mr. Taylor said. He believes that the national farm program of the past nine years has made it possible for every farmer, no matter how small his acreage, to feel he has a real stake in democracy and to want to do his part.

"This," he said, "is democracy in action. It took the war to make us all realize what the Department of Agriculture and the farmers of America have accomplished in the past nine years."

Families Improve Selves

"The work of the Farm Security Administration, for instance," he said, "has been enabling disadvantaged farm families year after year to improve themselves and better their condition. Farm Security has given thousands of farm families the opportunity to become substantial citizens, able to carry their part of community activities and responsibilities, and able and eager to do more than their share in the war effort."

"It is the work done day by day, month after month, since Farm Security was created in 1935, that makes possible this all-out farm effort."

Mr. Taylor explained that the Farm Security Administration was responsible for rekindling hope in the lives of thousands of families who faced a hopeless future until this new type of farm financing and assistance was authorized by Congress. And the need for Farm Security's program has increased, he said, as the years have gone by, because of the growth of large farms and the increase in commercialization and mechanization of farmlands, making it more difficult for the family-size farm to compete.

Repay $31,049.61

In Pettis County, 152 families, who are standard rural rehabilitation borrowers last year repaid a total of $31,049.61 on their loans. The loans to these families total $140,512.45 and have been made, maturing over a period of 5 years and bears interest at 5 percent. A farm family is not eligible for a Rural Rehabilitation loan who can secure credit through locally recognized credit agencies at reasonable interest rate.

As a means of helping the farm families acquire needed farm machinery and obtain more for their produce, Farm Security has provided community and cooperative service loans which permit a group of farmers to purchase equipment jointly, which they could not afford to buy individually.

Part of the FSA program deals with health, and in the county, 106 families are members of the Pettis County medical care association. The families, through this program, are receiving adequate medical care within their ability to pay. Local doctors have seen the need for this service and have cooperated fully with the families.

Life-Saving Steaks

When a doctor ordered ice for his wife and no ice was available, an Eskimo of the Unga colony secured a stack of frozen steaks from a frozen food plant and applied the steaks instead of ice, thus saving her life.

Earthworms Are Blessings

Earthworms aerate the soil and allow water to soak in, and the leaves dragged into the holes by the worms as food for themselves soon decompose into food for growing crops.

Beautifying Of Yards Urged

When speaking on Home Grounds to Pettis county Home Economic Extension club members and some of their friends, Miss Julia Rocheford said, "Our American elm is the most graceful tree that ever lived. A house without trees to shelter it and shrubs to cloth it is a pitiful thing." This meeting was Tuesday afternoon in the Court House assembly room.

Miss Rocheford further cautioned that clothes lines in the front yard were out of place. She said, "the back yard belongs to the family, the front yard belongs to the public." Miss Rocheford illustrated the plans for a well developed yard with little cost and showed pictures of several yards in Missouri which have been planted in that manner. She urged the use of native plants and shrubs. She said, "nature does not make anything but the beautiful, it takes man to make things ugly. The soul needs to be fed as well as the body, therefore, beautify your yard."

Some of the points in home beautification which Miss Rocheford stressed should not be done were, that of white washing trees, topping trees or shrubs such as spirea, and the use of little fences around shrubs. She said, "nature never fences in her shrubbery, why should man?" She explained by that she did not mean yard fences were not to be used, they are to be encouraged, however, the plan of using low rock, lath, or wire fences directly in front of shrubbery is not good landscaping.

Flowers About Home Attractive

Flowers should have a place in and around every home at all times, says Station Circular 223—Home Flower Gardens—just released by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

The growing of flowers in a garden differs widely from that of vegetables and fruits as to purpose, satisfaction, and achievement. The purpose of vegetables and fruit is food while flowers are purely for their effect on morale. The satisfaction of vegetables and fruits is their palatability, and flowers rest the mind and lend enjoyment through the sense if smell or sight, or both.

The achievement desired in vegetable and fruit growing is a highly nutritive produce which necessitates careful attention to plant food elements in the soil. With flowers you are sure to have success, although sometimes variable, on any soil and on any location, provided you choose the kind best suited for such conditions.

A thorough spading of the soil is sufficient preparation for many flowers, while addition of various fertilizers and humus is more necessary for others. Top soil which will support grass and other plant growth will grow flowers, but if subsoil from a basement evacuation is scattered over the area of the flower bed, it should be removed and good top soil substituted.

Vitamins From Use Of Cheese

Cheese contains most of the protein and minerals of the milk from which it is made. Only the solids of milk are used in cheese-making, and this increases the keeping qualities and decreases the transportation costs.

The liberal use of cheese is one way of getting calcium in the diet of persons who do not like to drink milk. In the process of making cheese, however, most of the Vitamin C and B of milk are destroyed, and some of the Vitamins C, B, and G are lost in the whey. Consequently, cheese is not as good a source of vitamins as whole milk. Cottage cheese made from skim milk is an excellent and inexpensive source of protein, calcium and other minerals.

The flavor of cheese depends somewhat upon the proportion of fat in the milk used, partly on the type of milk, and more largely on the method and degree of cooling. Good cheese has a characteristic nutty flavor, no grass flavor—is of uniform color, not mottled—has a texture characteristic of its kind. Cheese which melts easily is the best for cooking.

To use more cheese in an easy way to consume milk, which is important when feeding a family.—Flora L. Carl, Univ. of Missouri, College of Agriculture.

Put to Good Use

Scrap metal salvaged from the scuttled German fleet of 1918 went into the building of the giant British liners, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth.

Production Of Food From The Farms Larger

Help Is Extended To Lessen The Labor Shortage

Missouri farms are in the war turning out great increases in output of men, milk, cheese, eggs, and other highly essential foods—and will continue to do so despite many wartime difficulties, said Dean M. F. Miller of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture at a recent statewide meeting of livestock producers.

This war is demanding much greater production of food than that required in the last war and we must also expect considerable losses of food at sea, said Dean Miller, yet science has greatly increased the efficiency of farm production, educational facilities are better than they were 25 years ago, and farmers themselves are equipped with better training and organization.

To get wartime production without undue waste of soil resources is a big problem, but the soil conservation work of recent years and the accumulated effects of liming, legume growing, terracing and other soil building practices will now count heavily in our favor. A statewide campaign for contour planting of all row crops this spring is now under way among Missouri farmers as a wartime measure.

Labor Real Problem

Labor shortage is a real problem in Missouri, yet in all counties the labor committee and war boards have thoroughly checked both demand and supply and are receiving help from state and federal employment services.

To help meet the rubber shortage, farmers are organizing neighborhood transportation rings so that every trip to town may serve as many families and as many purposes as possible.

The farm machinery situation has been greatly improved by a statewide series of machinery repair schools extending over many weeks. Hundreds of men trained in these meetings will continue to serve as leaders in their communities.

The supply of fertilizers is short in nitrogen, though transportation difficulties will eventually affect all fertilizers. Now, when prices are high and our need for increased production is great, we ought to be using more fertilizer than ever before.

Fight Insect Pest

Insect pests and animal diseases—always a threat to farm production—must be fought aggressively. Fortunately we have both the scientific knowledge and the state and county organizations necessary to keep these enemies under control.

It is up to every one of us to do all we can, for those who serve on the food production front are performing an essential wartime service.

Will Report On Wheat Status

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard is scheduled to report to the Nation on the wheat problem, according to Bruce C. Claycomb, chairman of the local AAA Committee.

Wickard will address a mass meeting of farmers at Enid, Oklahoma, and his talk will be broadcast over the National Farm and Home Hour at 11:30 a. m., Central War Time, on the 28th of April. The subject of the Secretary's talk will be, "The Wheat Farmer and the War."

"This will be our only chance to hear the Secretary discuss the wheat situation before we vote in the wheat marketing quota referendum on May 2," Mr. Claycomb said. "I hope every farmer will take advantage of the opportunity to hear this talk since the outcome of the referendum will be of vital importance to every wheat farmer."

"We have enough wheat on hand to supply our needs for an entire year," Mr. Claycomb stated. "In addition, prospects are for a bumper wheat crop in the United States."

Eligibility to vote in the referendum is based on the acreage of wheat planted and the normal production. Any wheat producer who has planted more than 15 acres of wheat and whose normal production is at least 200 bushels will be eligible to vote. Individuals having 15 acres or less or a normal production of less than 200 bushels will not be directly affected by the quotas. If the quotas are turned down on May 2, there will be no government loans on the 1942 wheat crop.

Scrap to Slap the Jap

Farmers of America—Uncle Sam Needs Your Scrap Iron!

Farmers have been asked by the Pettis County USDA War Board to collect and sell all available scrap metal. It is estimated that between a quarter and a half ton of scrap iron is available on the average farm. This means approximately 1500 tons can be collected in this county if all farmers contribute.

More Cane Be Planted Due To Less Sugar

Four Preferable Varieties For The Sorghum Making

One thing that will be done about the sugar shortage will be the planting of cane on many Missouri farms this year, believes J. R. Paulling of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. Fortunately, the sweet sorghums are adapted throughout the state.

Most satisfactory results with sorghum come from planting pure seed of an adapted variety on a well prepared, weed-free seedbed late enough in the spring to assure warm weather for sprouting and early growth. Orange, Honey, Amber, and Sumac are the varieties of sweet sorghum best suited to Missouri conditions. Atlas sorgho and even Sunrise Kafir have been used for making syrup, but the four varieties mentioned are preferable.

Good Seed Plentiful

Orange is the variety most generally adapted, especially to the central and northern parts of the state. Furthermore, good seed of this variety seems to be most plentiful. Honey and Sumac are best suited to southern Missouri. Amber, being the earliest-maturing variety of the lot, is most useful when planting has been delayed. Every reasonable precaution should be taken to get pure seed of the variety chosen, since sorghum naturally mixes badly and crops grown from such seed are decidedly inferior.

About May 10 is considered a good planting date in south Missouri, May 20 in central Missouri, and June 1 in the northern part of the state.

The fact that sorghum is delicate in sprouting, and grows slowly at the start, emphasizes the importance of providing it with a good, clean seed-bed. Early plowing followed by disking each time a crop of weeds sprouts, and harrowing just before planting usually will result in a seedbed of the sort needed.

With rows spaced the width of corn rows, 6 to 8 pounds of seed per acre is a good planting rate. Planting should be no deeper than necessary to assure moisture for prompt germination. If the soil is so dry as to require planting as deep as 2 inches, it usually is better to delay planting until more moisture is available.

Milk In Diet Is Healthful

Cooking with milk is an easy means of helping adults get their daily quota of milk if they dislike to drink it, says Miss Letha O. Knight of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. If a child develops a milk prejudice, the problem is not so easily solved because it is more difficult to get the required amount of milk in a child's diet if he does not drink at least one-half of it.

To get all members of the family to use milk in liberal amounts, follow three simple rules: have variety, make dishes look appetizing and seldom use water to cooking when milk can be used. A goodly portion of milk can be included in the diet by cooking cereal in milk, serving milk soups, creamed dishes, flavored milk solids of milk are used in cheesecake and milk desserts.

Milk vegetables served together in creamed dishes supplement each other especially well in food value. Protein food as meats, poultry, fish, and hard cooked eggs are delicious creamed. Milk is used in bread to improve its flavor, texture, and food value, and helps to make it brown. Using some form of milk rather than water in baking is an excellent and inexpensive way to reinforce the nutritive value of the low-cost diet.

Cactus Cups

When woodpeckers in southwestern states bore holes in cactus, the wound seals itself with a hard, fiber lining, which is removed by native Indians and used like a cup or glass to hold water and other liquids.

Suggestions for a Victory Garden

No phase of successful vegetable production is more simple than cultivation nor is any more neglected. The primary purpose of cultivation is to keep down weeds, never letting them grow enough to develop leaves nor establish their roots in the soil; for weeds cause the greatest loss of moisture and plant food of all factors affecting vegetables during the growing season.

Once started, a weed develops with surprising rapidity and if cultivation is delayed only a few days the gardener discovers he has already waited too long, and as a result has a tedious job awaiting him.

If the soil is cultivated while the weeds are still in the seedling stage, simply exposing their roots to the sun will kill them in a few minutes. On the other hand, if weeds are allowed to develop leaves and roots, they have already robbed the soil of considerable moisture and plant food and are much harder to destroy.

The successful gardener takes no chances—he starts his cultivation just as soon as the first weed seedling appears.

Salt On Asparagus Bed

Years ago putting salt on asparagus beds was considered good practice, but in recent years this has been generally discontinued. Experiments and experience indicate that in those cases where the application of salt appeared of some value, much better results could have been obtained by adding fertilizer.

In high concentration, salt can be used to keep down the weeds, but this practice is only a substitute for cultivation. Much better results will be received from the cultivation, particularly if some fertility is added at the same time.

It can be said, therefore, that although the application of salt on asparagus beds does no harm, it also does little if any good.

Setting Frost Tender Plants

As soon as danger of frost is past, tomatoes, eggplant, and peppers should be set out. There is a distinct advantage in getting them out as soon after this date as possible, in that they have exceptionally good growing conditions then and are able to establish a wide, deep root system and a sturdy stem and top which will be much better able than later plants to withstand the hot dry weather.

The place where they are to be set should be worked down into a fine, compact, smooth seedbed which will give the most ideal growing condition and also make cultivation easier.

Sturdy well-grown disease-free plants are essential to good production. It is advisable wherever possible, to obtain plants from reliable local growers, or to grow them at home. For best results follow the suggestions made in the Missouri Vegetable Planting Calendar.

The Black Beauty variety of eggplant is the outstanding variety, earlier than most of the others, and producing from four to six smooth, purplish-black fruits of very pleasing flavor.

For sweet peppers, the Ruby King, World Beater, and California Wonder are excellent varieties which grow well under Missouri conditions.

Gardeners who grow their own plants find it pays to transplant them into individual pots, allowing them to grow vigorous roots and sturdy stalks.

Ten days or two weeks before these plants are to be set out in the garden, it is well to expose them to the outside temperature daily to harden them for final transplanting in the garden.

Parsnips And Salsify

Parsnips and salsify are two crops which add pleasing variety to the family supply of vegetables. Parsnips have a very distinctive flavor, unlike any other vegetable, and if grown on fertile soil they have an excellent texture and eating quality.

Salsify resembles parsnips in certain growth habits and is used chiefly for soup, the flavor being very much like oyster soup.

These two vegetables are among those of which only one planting is made. They are long-season crops, being planted early in the spring and harvested late in the fall or allowed to remain in the ground through the winter and dug as they are used, since freezing does not injure them.

Short thick varieties of parsnips are especially good, and the Mammoth Sandwich Island is the variety of salsify which should be grown. The Missouri Vegetable Calendar giving additional information can be obtained from your county agent.

Be Prepared For Insects

"Be a jump ahead of the insects." This is the secret of success in controlling insects. The gardener should have either a duster or sprayer, depending upon which method of application he prefers. These should be on hand for use early in the season. It is also necessary that he have some lead arsenate or calcium arsenate to be used in controlling chewing insects, and some nicotine sulphate for control of sucking insects.

One of the first insects likely to do damage in the garden is the cut worm. To prevent these worms from cutting off young cabbage, tomato, and other plants early in the season, broadcast poison bait over the ground just before dark, using about a gallon of bait to 100 square feet. Mix dry 10 pounds of bran and one-half pound of paris green or powdered white arsenic, then moisten with about one and a half gallons of water to make a moist, mealy mash.

Paper collars two inches high placed around the stems of plants as they are transplanted will also protect them.

Improvement In The Pig Crop

It is recognized that there are enormous differences in the inherent abilities of different strains of hogs to produce pork rapidly and efficiently, points out L. A. Weaver of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. Breeders of pure breeds have made much progress in improving animals for productive purposes, but only a small percentage of the total swine population are pure breeds and even among these some are more efficient than others.

While breeders are becoming vitally interested in production testing, as is evidenced by Registry of Merit activities of the various breeds, such methods of measuring efficiency are still not generally practiced so that it is difficult to secure the tested breeding animals even when the importance of doing so is appreciated. Until tested breeding stock is available, pork producers will have to use such females as are on hand. These should be bred to medium type easy feeding, heavy-hammed pure bred boars. Fortunately, the use of such will in the first cross, work enormous improvement in the productive ability of the offspring.

The purpose of this observance is to encourage more people to recognize religion as a corner stone of our civilization and to recognize that practical, rural life, since it is so close to nature or God's great Universe is closely connected to religion.
